ANDREW (NO MIDDLE NAME) FRIENDLY, white male, date of birth [REDACTED], place of birth [REDACTED], Social Security Account Number [REDACTED], currently resides at [REDACTED] home telephone number [REDACTED]. FRIENDLY was advised of the identity of the interviewing Agents and the purpose of the interview. FRIENDLY was interviewed in the presence of his attorney, DAVID WILSON. FRIENDLY provided the following:

FRIENDLY was hired in February of 1992 as a consultant for the CLINTON/GORE Presidential Campaign. FRIENDLY did advance work until the 1992 Presidential Election, and then was part of the transition team, based in Little Rock, where FRIENDLY also did advance work.

FRIENDLY served as President CLINTON's Personal Aide from January 21, 1993 until the end of October 1994. As Personal Aide, FRIENDLY was responsible for annotating the President's daily schedule, keeping the President on schedule, and traveling with the President.

FRIENDLY advised that every workday morning he received the President's schedule from the Scheduling Office. FRIENDLY would work from this document and annotate the schedule as the day went on. FRIENDLY explained that meetings would often be changed and rescheduled throughout the day. FRIENDLY would mark the schedule to reflect any changes he was aware of. FRIENDLY would also note the names of those who met with the President. Due to the large size of some meetings, FRIENDLY would be unable to note all participants at some meetings.

FRIENDLY advised that every afternoon two to four hours of "phone and office time" would be set aside for the President. FRIENDLY would move from his desk outside of the Oval Office to another desk he had down the hall. FRIENDLY did this so he could catch up on his paper work. FRIENDLY stated that if the President had visitors during this time, FRIENDLY would not be able to annotate the President's schedule to reflect the unscheduled meetings. Every week to ten days, FRIENDLY would
